

Daniella Colbert

Author of contemporary romance novels

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

From the makeup chair to the page.

Daniella Colbert has loved books for as long as she can remember. Before she wrote romance, she spent more than twenty years as a freelance makeup artist, with training from Make-Up Designory in Los Angeles and a BS in Theatre Arts from the University of Southern Indiana. Getting people ready for their big moments gave her a front-row seat to the nerves, drama and chemistry that make a great love story.

Her debut novel, A Sweet Inconvenience, is a steamy romantic comedy with plenty of heart. She loves writing adult romance with lots of comedy, unexpected twists and charming characters, and her books keep readers guessing until the very end.

Today she writes from Southern Indiana, surrounded by a large crew of cherished family and friends who may or may not show up in her books.

WHAT SHE WRITES

Three things readers can count on.

01

Sweet

Sexy romantic comedies that keep you guessing about everything until the very end.

02

Heat

Situational short stories where one very hot night changes everything.

03

Secrets

A little suspense, a touch of the paranormal, and family histories with a few skeletons in the closet.

A STANDALONE ROMANTIC COMEDY

A Sweet Inconvenience

"She has a shop to run and no time for love. He has other plans."

Ronni Dudrow has no time for romance. Between her shop, her monthly dessert showcase, and a crowd of friends and family who always need something, her plate is full. Then Jackson Prescott walks in (handsome, rich, and permanently in the spotlight) looking for her, of all people. His request is something she never saw coming. The more time they spend together, the more obvious their differences become. Yet, something has them both unable to ignore or resist what's going on between them.
